Membership

Membership is open to anyone with an interest in the genealogical research and preservation of materials that might aid in family research in Granville County or elsewhere. Membership in the Society includes: individual membership $15.00 and family membership (receiving one mailing) $20.00.

Members in the Society receive the Society Messenger Newsletter and the Granville Connection Journal. Membership is for one year and renewal date will be one year from joining date. These are mailed out in March, June, September and December each calendar year.

Editorial Policy

The Granville Connections Journal places its emphasis on material concerning persons or activities in the area known as Granville County in 1746. This includes present day Warren, Franklin, and Vance County. Members are encouraged to submit material for publication. The editorial staff will judge the material on relevance to area, interest, usefulness and content. Members are encouraged to submit queries for each journal. Each submission should be fully documented, citing the sources or it will not be printed. Submissions will not be returned, but will be placed in the North Carolina Room at the Richard H. Thornton Library in Oxford, North Carolina, which is the repository of the Society. The Society publication committee cannot assume responsibility for errors in submissions for publication. Corrections will be noted in subsequent issues.

Correspondence

Please notify the Society of any change in address as soon as possible. Send change of address card to GCGS, P.O. Box 1746, Oxford, NC 27565-1746.

THE SOCIETY MESSENGER

Volume 20 Number 3 Published quarterly - March, June, September, December Website www.gcgs.org

From the President— It is time again to get the Journal and Newsletter out. I apologize for it being late. Hopefully, I will be on a better schedule after this issue. It has been a very busy year and has started to slow down a bit.

Have to get ready to help with the voting here in Granville County. I have been serving as the Chief Judge for the Creedmoor precinct for a number of years and the long hours have not gotten any shorter. The Board of Elections are expecting a record turnout for a midterm election year.. I also help with the One Stop voting. This is when I get to see a lot of citizens that I don't get to see or speak to over the year. Always glad to see everyone exercising their right to vote.

As far as my researching of my family, I recently discovered another Confederate uncle. I hadn't doubled checked the Downey line and there he was. He was the brother of my great, great grandmother on my father's side of the family. I have some more that I am working on and have hit a brick wall on some of them. Well, anyway I will find the ones that are hiding from me. Mecklenburg County, Virginia is where these were living.

VERY IMPORTANT

We are looking for old Oxford Public Ledgers from 1944 through 1966 for the North Carolina Room. The publications of this paper for this period of time were destroyed before thoroughly checking to see if the library had microfilm to back them up. This period of time was very important to the county. If you have even one copy of the paper during this time please let our library make a copy of it, especially if you do not want to give your copy away. Please help us out here.

We have had some very interesting programs this year, thanks to Martha Morton and her hard work. Our attendance reached an all-time high of 61 people at one of our programs. Our speaker for that meeting was Mr. Boyce who told us about "Watergate" and the resignation of Nixon.. A lot of us remember this and kept up with it in the newspapers as it was happening, but the inside details of what Mr. Boyce told us was not published in the newspapers or on the news media.

The North Carolina room is still very busy. Mark Pace the NC Room Specialist is doing a super job trying to help everyone that comes in to do research. It is amazing just to watch him with these visitors and hear what he has to say and all of the information that he provides them. He is a walking history book. We have had visitors from all over the United States to visit our library to do research. We get a lot of compliments about all of the material that we have accumulated in the North Carolina Room.

I will stop for now so this one can go out to all of the members. Happy researching and hope you find that missing link to your family line.

Until next time,

Mildred

Social Security Cards Issued by Woolworth

The following article is from http://www.socialsecurity.gov/history/ssn/misu sed.html

The most misused Social Security Number of all time was 078-05-1120.

In 1938, wallet manufacturer the E. H. Ferree Company in Lockport, New York, decided to promote its product by showing how a Social Security card would fit into its wallets. A sample card, used for display purposes, was inserted in each wallet. Company Vice President and Treasurer Douglas Patterson thought it would be a clever idea to use the actual Social Security Number of his secretary, Mrs. Hilda Schrader Whitcher.

The wallet was sold by Woolworth stores and other department stores all over the country. Even though the card was only half the size of a real card, was printed all in red, and had the word "specimen" written across the face, many purchasers of the wallet adopted the SSN as their own. In the peak year of 1943, 5,755 people were using Hilda's number. The Social Security Administration acted to eliminate the problem by voiding the number and publicizing that it was incorrect to use it. Mrs. Whitcher was given a new number. However, the number continued to be used for many years. In all, over 40,000 people reported this as their SSN. As late as 1977, 12 people were still found to be using the SSN "issued by Woolworth."

Mrs. Whitcher recalled coming back from lunch one day to find her fellow workers teasing her about her new-found fame. They were singing the refrain from a popular song of the day: "Here comes the million-dollar baby from the five and ten cent store."

Although the snafu gave her a measure of fame, it was mostly a nuisance. The FBI even showed up at her door to ask her about the widespread use of her number. In later years she observed: "They started using the number. They thought it was their own. I can't understand how people can be so stupid. I can't understand that."

The New York wallet manufacturer was not the only one to cause confusion about Social Security numbers. More than a dozen similar cases have occurred over the years — usually when someone publishes a facsimile of an SSN using a made-up number. (The Whitcher case is far and away the worst involving a real SSN and an actual person.)

One embarrassing episode was the fault of the Social Security Board itself. In 1940 the Board published a pamphlet explaining the new program and showing a facsimile of a card on the cover. The card in the illustration used a made-up number of 219-09-9999. Sure enough, in 1962 a woman presented herself to the Provo, Utah, Social Security office, complaining that her new employer was refusing to accept her old Social Security number — 219-09-9999. When it was explained that this could not possibly be her number, she whipped out her copy of the 1940 pamphlet to prove that yes, indeed, it was her number!

Deaths for June, July and August 2014

Editors Note: This listing shows the deaths from the obituaries of three newspapers (Oxford Public Ledger, Butner/Creedmoor News, Henderson Dispatch) for the specified time. Names are listed as they appear in the papers. Their listed age, whether they were Buried or Cremated (many people would be looking for a tombstone and gravesites with burials, but with cremations they need to look for a death certificate or an obit). The date of death and parents if listed. Some Funeral Homes do not list the parents.

By Donald Brown

Jones Fuller Named Children in Will

In his will of May 5, 1812, Jones named 17 or 18 children all born of his first wives. The will is long and loosely organized with irregular spelling and no punctuation, unclear on some points. We have the feeling that Jones simply sat at his desk, for he had one, and wrote much as he would talk; or perhaps he dictated the will to another person in a conversational manner. Our guess is that he listed older children first, skipping some, down to his two minor children, and then adding those he had skipped. We name the children in their order in the will; and then we name the slaves.

Isham, who probably was born about 1760, seems the oldest child. He moved to Randolph County, North Carolina, where he was married to Elizabeth Roberts, the daughter of William and Sarah (Stovall) Roberts. He was there by the time of the 1785 tax list; in the 1790 census he was enumerated as the head of a household of six. His second wife was Sarah Allen. Isham moved to Laurens County, South Carolina, about the early 1790's, dying there in June of 1805. In his will, Jones left Isham's children two hundred dollars to be equally divided among them, adding that if they were not satisfied and asked for more, then they were to have nothing.

Sealy (Celia?) was also deceased at the time of the will. She had been married to Arthur Fuller, her second cousin, the son of Timothy Fuller, in 1782. Jones left two hundred dollars to be equally divided between her two sons Jones and Henry. He also gave these sons the land that they and their father Arthur were living on.

Archibald (Archie) also moved to Randolph County, North Carolina, where he married to Martha (Patty) Miller, daughter of Haman and Frances (Roberts) Miller. He was there by the time of the 1799 tax list; in 1810 census he was the head of a household of five. It is interesting to me that in Randolph County the Fullers had close connections to the Millers and Robertses because they are my direct lines.

Bartholomew, who was born on April 25, 1769, was married to Sarah Cook in 1794. He became a Baptist Minister. In the 1800 census in Franklin County, he was enumerated the head of household of five. His son Jones , born in 1808, was married to Anna Long Thomas in 1846. Jones became a cotton broker and merchant and the father of Edwin Wiley Fuller (1847-1876), a noted novelist and poet, who was born in Louisburg, North Carolina. His novel Sea Gift was published in 1873, three years before his untimely death.

There is a particularly puzzling part to the will:"...there is my son Henry Jones and Sarah Holt...."? According to this, Jones had a son names Henry Jones, or did he? Was there a son named Henry, my son Jones? Did Jones mean, "my son Henry, my son Jones, and my daughter Sarah Holt"? Col. T. A. Fuller was well aware of the puzzle but felt there were several more Fullers with th names of Henry and Jones.

Col. Fuller stated that Henry was married to Charlotte Fuller, his first cousin, daughter of Solomon and Gilly (Avent) Fuller. Henry apparently moved to Randolph County, North Carolina, where the couple were surely married. Henry moved to Laurens County, South Carolina, where he died in Granville Connections

GCGS 1746, Inc. September 2014

1814. Laurens County, South Carolina, which was created in 1785 from District #96, was a magnet for Various Fullers, Millers and Robertses.

Jones was married to Sarah Miller (per Col. Fuller) and died in Laurens County, South Carolina. Sarah Holt was married to John Holt on a bond dated February 8, 1791.

Zilla Fuller was married to Jacob Miller

Zilly (Zilla), who was born about 1780, was married to Jacob Miller in 1801 in Randolph County, North Carolina. They were my direct ancestors.

Dempsey was married to Nancy Harris in 1797. After Nancy's early death, it seems that Dempsey was married a second time. He moved from Granville County to nearby Wake County, North Carolina in the 1830's and then possibly on to Texas in the 1840's.

Milley (Millie-Mildred?) was married to a man surnamed Yarbrough. By the ime of the 1810 census in Franklin County, she was a widow, the head of household of eight.

Mary, also known as Polly, was married to a man surnamed Jordan at the time of the will.

Allis (Alice?) was married to man surnamed Bailey at the time of the will. She seemed to be among the younger daughters. To her Jones left a horse "called the rock filly", one saddle and bridle, two ewes and lambs; and after his debts were paid, she was to receive the remaining horses, cattle, sheep and hogs.

Fannie (Frances?) and Worrin (Warren) were minors at the time of the will, both certainly born in the 1790's. Jones provided generously for his two youngest because he had not provided previously. To Fannie he gave "bed and furniture," one woman's saddle and bridle, a cow and calf, a sow and pigs, one-half of the geese, one pot, one dish, six spoons, six plates, a case of knives and forks and enough to buy a good suit of clothes. We feel that each child received this suit of clothes on reaching a certain age—twenty-one for the sons.

Jones also gave Fannie his black mare filly, one large pot, one Dutch oven, and a desk, "as was her mammey's." This gift is interesting because it shows that a mother was called "mammy". The counterpart for father was "pappy," with both shortened to "mam" and "pap." The possessions which Jones left to his children are all particularly interesting as are those in the previously mentioned wills, because they illustrate a way of life long gone.

Th Warren, Jones left "this land and plantation whereon I now live after taking what I want for Ephraim and Jordan." At this point he said that Fannie was to have a home for as long as she was single or come of age. Jones also left Warren one large pot, one Dutch oven, one horse and colt, one saddle and bridle, one cow and calf, two sows and pigs, a small shotgun, a musket, and one-half of the geese. He also gave Warren his own desk and enough to buy a good suit of clothes.

Jones made special provisions for Ephraim, Jordan and Jonathan, who were younger sons preceding Warren, possibly born between the mid-1780's and the early 1790's. To Ephraim he gave land, describing it not stating the acreage. He also gave him a colt, a saddle and bridle, a cow and calf, two sows and pigs, a small shotgun and a musket. Ephraim pioneered to Tennessee by the 1830's, first to Humphreys County and then to Henderson County.

To Jordan, Jones gave the land that Jordan was living on. Jordan was married to Elizabeth Conyers and pioneered to Henderson County, Tennessee, by the 1830's. He later possibly moved to Texas, as some of his sons did.

Jones Fuller Gave Land to Jonathan

Jones gave Jonathan forty acres of land plus two ewes and lambs. Additional information about Jonathan is lacking.

Jones mentioned Alsey last in his will although Alsey was not among the younger sons. He was born about 1777. He was married to a woman named Sarah and by 1810 was living in York District,

South Carolina, where he was enumerated in the 1810 census.

(Some of the information on the children came from Early Southern Fullers by Theodore Albert Fuller.)

Jones mentioned 19 slaves, which he referred to as "Negroes" plus eight unnamed ones he had previously given to his children. Those mentioned were Sam, Ben, Tamer, Jeny, Ab, Lender, Sandy, Pat, Grace, Solomon, Stephen, Davie, Middleton, Luce, Beck, Ann, Easter, and two named Jacob. The Emancipation Proclamation was now 51 years away.

Jones named sons Bartholomew, Ephraim and Warren as his executors. Jones signed his will with a cursive signature. All, or almost all, of the other mentioned Fullers signed their documents with an "X," except Ezekiel (1) with his "EF" mark. Witnesses to the will were Wiley Clinton, Wiley Mitchell and Ernd Brodie.

Jones Fuller died later in the year of 1812, for in December 1812, Bartholomew and Ephraim Fuller turned in an inventory to the December Court.

Priscilla Fuller's will was proven in court in 1815.

Zilla Fuller and Jacob Miller were my great-grandparents to the third degree. They were married in Randolph County, North Carolina, on a bond dated April 23, 1801, when Thomas Jefferson was president. Jacob was born about 1779 in Randolph County, the son of Haman and Frances (Roberts) Miller. Zilley and Jacob must have met when she was in Randolph County visiting her brothers Isham and Archibald, or perhaps she was living in the family of one of them. She was about 21 years old when she married.

It seems that Zilley and Jacob became parents of about eight children, but we know the names of only five, all born in Randolph County: Martha (Patty), Frances (about 1810), Jones F.(about 1814, Haman F. (about 1816), and Alsey Silvanus (1830). Note the Fuller names of Jones F. and Alsey, with the "F" in Jnoes probably "Fuller." In the 1810 census for Randolph County, Jacob Miller was enumerated as the head of a household of eight.

The Millers left Randolph County sometime about the early 1820's. We have no record of the family for the rest of the decade, but the Millers surely were in York District, South Carolina, by about 1828 when the daughter Frances was married to Jesse Thorn, who was born in York District about 1808, the son of Hezekiah Thorn.

It is significant to note that Zilla's brother Alsey Fuller was living in York District at this time, near the town of Rock Hill, where the Thorn's lived. Perhaps it was he who drew the Millers to York District. Alsey was about three years older than Zilla, and they were close as children. Zilla named a son Alsey.

Dates on Alsey and his family came from tombstones in the Flint Hill Cemetery near Rock Hill. Alsey's tombstone revealed that he died on August 11,1843, in his 66th year. Sarah his wife died on December 29, 1845, in he 63rd year. There are tombstones for two apparent sons. Isham Fuller died on May 24, 1872, aged 58 year, four months. Dorcas Fuller, wife of Bartholomew, died on July 27, 1872, aged 55 years. There is also a tombstone for William Fuller, who died on February 14, 1846, aged 56 (same date as Isham). Aged 55 years. The unusual name of Alsey continued in the Fuller line, to those surnamed Fuller and otherwise.

Changes in Genealogy

New Burials

by Michael J. Leclerc

For a variety of reasons, people are no longer going the traditional route for their post mortem plans. And it will change the way genealogists in the future research.

I'm not referring to cremation. That has been common for a century at this point. It is what happens to those cremains that has changed. In days past, cremains would be buried in cemeteries. Sometimes they are buried in family graves alongside coffins. Many cemeteries have a special area for cremated remains called a columbarium, or they might have an urn garden.

But today, many people are opting to have their ashes spread elsewhere, in places that have some sort of significance to them. The remains of John F. Kennedy, Jr., for example, were spread at sea. The ashes of comedian Robin Williams who died this summer were scattered in San Francisco Bay.

Many eco-conscious people are now opting to have a "green burial" or "natural burial." The remains are not embalmed, and are buried in biodegradable containers. Usually the graves are unmarked.

How is this changing genealogy? One of our major resources for research are grave markers. Many cemeteries have seen their inscriptions transcribed and published over the years. And websites like FindAGrave, BillionGraves and CemeteryCensus have made it even easier to view grave markers and transcriptions of the inscriptions. Often these inscriptions are the only records of death that we have.

These new forms of burial leave no markers. Not only will there be no inscription to transcribe, but genealogists will be robbed of another wonderful experience. During my research I have visited the final resting places of countless individuals. Each time I am able to pause and reflect on who they were and what they accomplished in life. The feeling will not be the same for those whose remains are spread to the winds or the water, like Aunt Mary; JFK, Jr.; and Robin Williams. Our research, and our experiences, will never be the same.

The Confederates Who Moved to Brazil

by Dick Eastman

Many citizens of the Confederacy disappeared from public records at the end of the Civil War or soon thereafter. Of course, record keeping was spotty at best in the turmoil that followed the defeat of the Confederacy. If you can't find your relatives during that time, you might be tempted to say, "Oh well, he (or she) probably died in the war." Don't be so sure.

Americana is a small city about 100 miles from São Paulo, Brazil's largest city. The town was settled by disgruntled American Confederates after their side lost the Civil War. Descendants of the original settlers still live there today, and most of them still speak English with a strong southern drawl.

After the Civil War, many families from the old South were left landless and destitute. They probably hated living under a conquering army of Yankees. Brazilian emperor Dom Pedro II realized this group of disenchanted Americans could be a solution to one of his problems: how to develop the sparsely-settled areas of his country. He was especially interested in developing the cultivation of cotton, a crop well-known to the former Confederates. He provided incentives to people who knew how to raise cotton, Granville Connections offering land at twenty-two cents an acre with four years credit and passage to Brazil for thirty Yankee dollars. Each family was encouraged to bring a tent, light-weight furniture, farming supplies and seeds, and provisions to last six months.

Dom Pedro II sent recruiters into Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, South Carolina, and Texas in search of experienced cotton farmers for his country. Many southerners saw this as their only option for happiness, to build a community with southern values in the jungle of Brazil. They would become known as the Confederados. About 10,000 Confederates did take the Emperor up on his offer although about sixty percent of them later went back to the United States in small groups.

COLONEL WILLIAM HUTCHINSON NORRIS

The immigrants settled in several different areas of Brazil, but the most successful group settled in what is now known as Americana in the state of São Paulo. The first immigrant to arrive was the lawyer and ex-senator of Alabama, Colonel William Hutchinson Norris. He left Alabama in 1866. The following year his family joined him, along with many families from several other Confederate States. They soon built houses and formed an agricultural society that was quite different from that of their Portuguese-speaking neighbors.

The colonists were ecstatic about what they saw, and one wrote back to the Mobile Daily Register: "I have sugar cane, cotton, pumpkins, squash, five kinds of sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, cornfield peas, snap beans, butter beans, ochre [probably okra], tomatoes and fine chance at tobacco. I have a great variety of fruits on my place. I have made enough to live well on and am better pleased than other."

CONFEDERATE IMMIGRANTS MR. JOSEPH WHITAKER AND MRS. ISABEL NORRIS

A small town soon formed, and a train station was built when the first railroad line was constructed through the area in 1875. The train station was officially named "Villa da Estação de Santa Bárbara" (Santa Bárbara Station Town), but the nearby town became popularly known as "Villa dos Americanos" (Town of the Americans). The town was later officially named Americana.

Slavery was still legal in Brazil when the Confederates arrived, probably one of the reasons they were attracted to the area. Black slaves were used in agriculture and in a textile mill established by one of the immigrants. However, a new law soon after in 1871 freed all children born to slave parents, thereby signaling the future end of slavery. The Law of Sexagenarians in 1885 freed slaves when they reached the age of 60, and Brazil finally outlawed all slavery in 1888. The textile mill soon failed, as did a number of the larger farms in Americana. The smaller farms succeeded, however, and the area slowly grew and prospered.

New waves of immigrants settled in and near Americana, notably large numbers of Italians and Germans in the 1880s. The families intermarried over the years, and today Americana's population is described as a mixture of Luso-Afro-Brazilians (Luso meaning Portuguese) and immigrants, mainly Italian, Portuguese, German, and Arabic. The name of Americana still survives, and because of intermarriages, almost all of today's citizens of the area can claim some Confederados ancestry. Indeed, English (with a southern accent) is the unofficial second language of the area and is still spoken by many in the area.

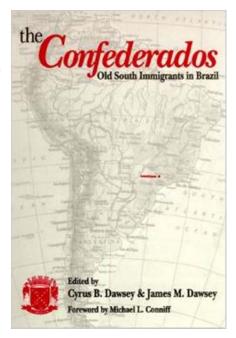

Today Americana is a city of 120,000 people. The ties to the old South live on. Fiesta Confederada is a celebration that takes place in the cemetery where the old Confederates are buried. The food served includes southern fried chicken, vinegar pie, chess pie, and biscuits. Banjos are played and Confederate songs are sung. The men wear Confederate uniforms, and the women dress in pink and blue and wear matching ribbons in their hair. The festival often looks like scenes from "Gone With the Wind."

About 400 Americans and some of their descendants are buried in the cemetery. One of the graves belongs to W.S. Wise, a great uncle of Rosalynn (Mrs. Jimmy) Carter, wife of the former president of the United States. In 1972, Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter made a visit to this cemetery. The cemetery contains a small chapel, an obelisk with the Confederate flag and the names of the original families, and a small museum with photos and artifacts from the original settlers.

You can learn more about this settlement and the families who lived there by starting online. Auburn University has a large Confederados Collection; a guide to the collection may be found at http://www.lib.auburn.edu/archive/find-aid/958.htm. A web site of the history of the Confederados may be found at http://www.confederados.com.br/. This web site also contains a list of Confederados families.

Much more information may be found in The Confederados: Old South Immigrants in Brazil, a book by by Cyrus B. Dawsey (Editor), James M. Dawsey (Editor), Michael L. Conniff (Foreword), & 9 more, available on Amazon at http://goo.gl/8IOgcs.

If your long-lost relatives disappeared shortly after the American Civil War, you might find them in Americana, São Paulo, Brazil.

Clues in Census Records, 1850-1940

Experienced genealogical researchers use clues found in one record to find other records about the same individual. This article describes some of the clues found in census records.

Date of birth

- The 1900 census (column 7) indicates the person's month and year of birth; the 1850-1880 and 1910-1940 censuses indicate the person's age.
- The 1870 census (column 13) and 1880 census (column 7) indicate the month in which the person was born, if born "within the year," that is between June 1, 1869 and May 31, 1870 for the 1870 census, or June 1, 1879 and May 31, 1880, for the 1880 census. The official census day was June 1 in both 1870 and 1880, although the enumerator may have visited the household at a later date.
- While the person's age is not an exact date of birth, it at least provides a "ballpark" figure useful (1) for tracking the person from one census to the next, especially if other people have the same name, and (2) for locating the person in any existing vital records.

Place of birth

• The 1850-1940 censuses indicate the person's state or country of birth, which helps narrow the geographic scope of search for the specific town of birth.

Date of marriage

- The 1850 census (column 10), 1860 census (column 11), 1870 census (column 14), and 1880 census (column 12) indicate whether the person had married within the year.
- "Within the year" means during the year before the official census day, that is, between June 1, 1849 and May 31, 1850, for the 1850 census; between June 1, 1859 and May 31, 1860, for the 1860 census; between June 1, 1869 and May 31, 1870, for the 1870 census; and between June 1, 1879 and May 31, 1880, for the 1880 census. The official census day was June 1 in each of these census years, although the enumerator may have visited the household at a later date.
- The 1900 census (column 10) and 1910 census (column 9) indicate the number of years of marriage for each married person.

Number of children

• The 1900 census (column 11) and 1910 census (column 10) indicate how many children were born to each woman. The 1900 census (column 12) and 1910 census (column 11) indicate how many of those children were still living. These clues can help determine whether the researcher has identified all children in a given family, and whether any were deceased when either census was taken.

Immigration

• The 1900 census (column 16), 1910 census (column 15), 1920 census (column 13), and 1930 census (column 22) each indicate the person's year of immigration to the United States. This information should help in locating a ship passenger arrival list.

Naturalization

- The 1870 census (column 19) has a check mark for "Male Citizens of the U.S. of 21 years of age and upwards." If the person was a foreign-born citizen, this means that he had become naturalized by 1870.
- The 1900 census (column 18), the 1910 census (column 16), and 1920 census (column 14), and 1930 census (column 23) indicate the person's naturalization status. The answers are "Al" for alien, "Pa" for "first papers," and "Na" for naturalized.
- The 1920 census (column 15) indicates the year in which the person was naturalized. These clues may lead to naturalization records.

Foreign-born parents

- The 1870 census (columns 11-12) have check marks if the person's parents were "of foreign birth."
- The 1880 census (columns 25-26), 1900 census (columns 14-15), 1910 census (columns 13-14), 1920 census (columns 21 & 23), and 1930 census (columns 19-20) indicate the person's parents' birthplaces.

Military Service

- Service in Union or Confederate Army or Navy
 - The 1910 census (column 30) indicates whether the person was a "survivor of the Union or Confederate Army or Navy." The answers are "UA" for Union Army, "UN" for Union Navy, "CA" for Confederate Army, and "CN" for Confederate Navy. These clues lead to military service and pension records; see Civil War Records and Confederate Pension Records for more information.
 - o A word of caution: On the 1910 census, columns 30-32 are often "overwritten" with numbers like 2-1-0-0 or 6-9-0-0. These numbers are not the answers for columns 30-32, but were data summaries used by Census Bureau tabulators in Washington, DC, to compile statistical data.
 - o The 1930 census (column 31) indicates Civil War veterans with the abbreviation "CW."
- Military Service, 1898-1918, in Major Wars
 - The 1930 census (column 31) indicates military service in other wars with "Sp" for Spanish-American War, "Phil" for Philippine Insurrection, "Box" for Boxer Rebellion, "Mex" for Mexican Expedition, and "WW" for World War I.

Real property

- The 1850 census (column 8), 1860 census (column 8), and 1870 census (column 8) indicate the value of real property (land) owned by each person.
- The 1900 census (column 25), 1910 census (column 26), 1920 census (column 7), and 1930 census (column 7) indicate whether the person owned ("O") or rented ("R") the home or farm.
- The 1900 census (column 26), 1910 census (column 27), and 1920 census (column 8) indicate whether home and farm owners owned their property with a mortgage ("M") or free of mortgage ("F").
- The 1930 census (column 8) indicates the value of home, if owned, or the monthly rental, if rented.

These clues should lead researchers to the county recorder's office or equivalent agency for deeds, mortgages, and property tax records.

Economic data.

- The 1850 census (column 7), 1860 census (column 7), 1870 census (column 7), and 1880 census (column 13) all indicate the person's occupation. If the answer is "farmer," the researcher should look for information about the farmer's land ownership, crops, and livestock in the agricultural census schedules. If the person was a saw or grist miller, cheese maker, or other "manufacturer," the researcher should check the manufacturing census schedules.
- Agricultural census schedules exist for 1850-1880; manufacturing census schedules exist for 1820 and 1850-1880.
- For more information and roll lists of non-population census schedules available as NARA microfilm publications, see Non-population Census Records.

Conclusion.

Researchers who use these and other clues in census records will be more successful--and thorough--in their genealogical research.
